ABSTRACT

Names and subject areas are listed for 345 individuals who in the last ten years (by spring 1977) had completed the doctoral dissertation grant program through which the Office of Research and Development provides financial assistance for research on employment and training. The listing for each individual includes the following information (unless unavailable): (1) name; (2) current address; (3) title and place of employment; (4) the name of the university that granted the Ph.D. degree and the year that it was conferred; (5) the dissertation title and accession number by which copies of the dissertation can be ordered from the National Technical Information Service; and (6) three subject area descriptors for each dissertation. A subject index, based on the descriptors, is included along with a brief description of the grant program. (JH)

INTRODUCTION

The Office of Research and Development has for more than a decade provided financial assistance in support of dissertation research in the field of employment and training to more than 450 candidates for the Ph.D. degree. The 345 individuals who have completed the program by the spring of 1977 represent a rich and unique reservoir of technical skills and experience in a wide variety of specialized areas in the employment and training field.

This publication provides the employment and training community with the names and subject areas of interest to these scholars. If the information is known to the Office of Research and Development, the listing for each individual includes; (1) name; (2) current address; (3) title and place of employment; (4) the name of the university that granted the Ph.D. degree and the year that it was conferred; (5) the dissertation title and accession number by which copies of the dissertation may be ordered from the National Technical Information Service, Operations Division, Springfield, Virginia 22151; and (6) up to three subject areas covered by the dissertation. The index lists the names of the persons whose dissertations relate to each of the subject area descriptors.

Many of these individuals may be attached to universities and are quite mobile, hence, current addresses are not available. However, should there be an interest in contacting anyone listed, please get in touch with the university directly. Professional association directories may also have current information on addresses.

(The Doctoral Dissertation Grant Program is described in the announcement reproduced on the inside of the back cover of this directory.)

DOCTORAL DISSERTATION GRANT PROGRAM

Program's Purpose

To DEVELOP greater capability in behavioral sciences related to the employment and training field and to increase the availability of experts as employment and training program administrators, specialists, consultants, and researchers.

To DIRECT the attention of doctoral candidates to the Nation's employment and training problems.

To GUIDE social science research toward employment and training problems.

Who Is Eligible

DOCTORAL CANDIDATES who have completed all requirements for the degree except the dissertation, or those who will have completed them when the grant starts.

APPLICATIONS must be made through the university or college in the name of a specific candidate with the approval of the advisor. Candidates who have partially completed their dissertations may also apply.

INSTITUTIONS awarded grants must be accredited.

How to Apply

GUIDELINES for submission of doctoral dissertation grants are included in the publication, Employment and Training Research and Development Projects, and may be obtained free from:

Director
Office of Research and Development
Employment and Training Administration
U.S. Department of Labor
601 D Street, NW., Room 9100
Washington, D.C. 20213 (202)376-7243

CLOSING DATES for receiving applications are December 1, March 1, June 1, and September 1. All proposals are acknowledged when submitted and final determination made within 3 months.

Selection Procedure

GRANTS are made on the basis of evaluation and recommendation of the Small Grants Review Panel. The five-member panel of interdisciplinary experts from outside the Government considers each proposal separately.

PRIMARY consideration is given to the proposal's originality and creativity within the employment and training research area.

Grant Awards

AWARDS are made to the school for the use of the candidate. Funds are available for stipend (for candidate), allowance (for dependents), secretarial and clerical assistance, travel, materials and supplies, communication services, and computer usage. These costs may total up to $10,000 for a period not to exceed 1 year.

The UNIVERSITY or COLLEGE may also receive indirect costs and an allowance for tuition and fees up to $2,500.

Study Areas

TOPIC of a candidate's dissertation must relate to the research objectives described in title III, part B of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) of 1973 (Public Law 93-203). Study areas include:
